Art Unit: 1793

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 10 is indefinite because it depends on a canceled claim.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 7 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by Tamai et al. (144).

Tamai et al. teach in the abstract, column 3, lines 12-45, column 5, line 64-column 6, line 27, column 8, lines 33-35 and the claims, a polishing composition comprising 10+ weight percent fumed silica. The fumed silica has a bulk density of at least 70 g/l. The reference also teaches a method of making the fumed silica polishing composition.

Art Unit: 1793

In view of the above teachings, the claimed composition is anticipated by the reference because the reference teaches a composition that comprises 10+ weight percent (claimed value) fumed silica having the claimed bulk density.

With respect to the process limitations, the reference clearly teaches these, however, assuming arguendo, applicants use process limitations to define the product and "product-by-process" claims do not patentably distinguish the product even though made by a different process. In re Thorpe 227 USPQ 964.

Claims 1, 2, and 6-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Kaufman et al. (382) in view of Tamai et al. (144).

Kaufman et al. teach in the claims, a polishing composition comprising 15 weight percent fumed silica, an oxidizer, a complexing agent and other components.

This reference is silent as to the bulk density of the fumed silica and the processing conditions used to make the slurry.

With respect to the bulk density, this is obvious motivated by the fact that the secondary reference teaches in column 6, lines 7-23 beneficial reasons to make a polishing composition by using fumed silica with the claimed bulk density.

With respect to the process limitations, applicants use process limitations to define the product and "product-by-process" claims do not patentably distinguish the product even though made by a different process. In re Thorpe 227 USPQ 964.

Art Unit: 1793

Claims 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Tamai et al. (144) in view of Kaufman et al. (382).

The primary reference lacks the teaching of the claimed additives in the polishing composition, however, it is the examiners position that the skilled artisan would have appreciated and thus found it obvious to add any one of the claimed additives to the composition according to the primary reference because these additives are conventionally known to be added to polishing compositions depending on the polishing characteristics sought and this aspect would have been well within the scope of the skilled artisan with predictable results.

The additional references cited on the 1449 have been reviewed by the examiner and are considered to be art of interest since they are cumulative to or less than the art relied upon in the above rejections.

Any foreign language documents submitted by applicant has been considered only to the extent of the short explanation of significance, English abstract or English equivalent, if appropriate.
